The index chapters (13 chapters) About about this book The history of relationships between the community and European Thrkey was a sad story, on both sides. Irealism was the keynote in all. What was expected for a long time for the end of 1987 was to sweep away the contradictions and the wipers of the past, and try to make a new beginning on a more realistic base. Thrkey now officially asked to resume as a full member of the community. Howa never, as several chapters of this show report, there are on both sides large reserves to the attack of members, unless this was destined to take place only many years to come. Political, LY, the relationship between the community and Turkey was damaged by the problems of Cyprus and Aegean between Thrkey and Greece. He began to break down already in 1964, and the violation was expanded by the events of 1974 in Cyprus, from one of Greece A · Next to Quick transfer to the Community, and the military taking up in Thrkey in 1980. Since 1980 there is It was a slow process of restoring relationships, marked by new elections in November 1983, and a gradual recovery of Turkey's position in the Council of Europe in 1986, Turkey was trying to restore his credentials as a democratic state. Economically there have been serious complaints on both sides about the operation of the ASA Social Agreement. In the Community was Feit that the economic policy of Thrkish Goa Verni before 1979 was in contradiction with the purposes of the agreement. Therefore, the education of children in healthy families is advantageous for society. Despite the importance of maintaining the sustainability of the family, which is the fundamental unity of society, when family sustainability is not possible, a fundamental duty of the courts must be to provide the best model of custody for the child's well-being After the dissolution of a marriage. Studies have shown that children have a better psychological state and can easily pass the trauma of divorce, when the courts rule for joint assignment compared to when the courts rule for exclusive entrustment. Joint assignment, of which many legal systems, is not regulated by Turkish law. Thus, the requests for the execution of foreign judgments joint reignation are rejected by the Turkish courts for violating public policy. Turkish courts incorrectly consider foreign law, which provides for different rules, as a reason for a public policy intervention. In this study, it was found that Turkish courts can exclude for joint custody to second international conventions. In this context, it is not possible to refuse the execution of foreign judgments joint reliance from the second the public order exception. States exercise their superinty through their legal branches. The legislative branch makes the laws, the executive applies these laws, and the judiciary solves conflicts within the framework of these laws to protect the order These branches act in the name of the state-owner of the state ç s. For this reason, states do not allow other legal institutions to intervene or participate in the functioning of their country ç s legal branches [1,2,3]. As a result, judges' decisions have an effect only in countries where they are provided [4,5,6] and cannot be performed in other countries. It is not possible possible The courts of a country to directly direct instructions to the public officials of another country, that is, the executive branch of a country does not work depending on a sentence provided in a foreign country [7,8]. When a judgment is obtained from a court, the parties may wish for the judgment mentioned by recognizing and / or applied in a foreign country. The goal is to achieve the certainty of transnational law and to avoid repeated litigation. This will also prevent reitentance expenses and promote a stable and uniform international order [9]. Some perspectives suggest that as regards the recognition of foreign judgments, a foreign forum can be considered more appropriate. Furthermore, the recognition of foreign judgments can lead to "the implementation of a policy that does not make the choice of the chief forum depends on the local application availability [10] (p.972). Although this is the case, not We can expect the judgments of the courts of a state automatically have an effect in another state. This is contrary to US sensitivity with regard to their superinty [11]. Therefore, he claims to use recognition and application procedures for Ensure that foreign sentences that will have the same strength as their judgments [10] are not the result of a lack of foreign procedure or that the result of foreign judgment will not be questionable [12]. In other words, if the Court request is convinced that a matter has been adequately decided by a foreign court and there is no need for additional disputes, the external sentence can be recognized [10]. Notes that States are not obliged to recognize or apply foreign judgments due to the principle of equality of States [13]. You can discuss two different effects of foreign judgments. With the recognition, it is accepted that the external sentence has a fact or has a conclusive effect [1,4,5,9,14,15,16,17]. In other words, A ç ä,~ A "Recognition of a judgment means treating the statement that has been judged to have been determined once and for all ... 11] (p. 115). The recognition can also be expressed as a foreign judgment that becomes legally valid in the country in which it is recognized [18]. On the other hand, with the application decision (Exeurur), the successful slant requires his judgment in another country. The application can also be defined as A ç ä,~ A "... a procedure to ensure the executivity of an external judicial judgment as if it were a judicial decision given by the courts of the country that undertake the implementation action - (19) (Page 57). It should be noted that foreign judgments that require the defendant to give something (dare), do something (do the face), or don't do something (don't do) Request an application judgment, while i Foreign reviews showing the existence or non-existence of on the right or a legal relationship requires only recognition. It is also possible to say that foreign sentences on the creation of a new legal situation or a change of content or resolution of a situation existing legal requires recognition [8]. In a globalized world, people and goods can easily move from one country to another, which makes the law of recognition and application of judgments more important the. With the growing importance of recognition and application, the number of bilateral and multilateral treaties concerning the ä ç
